

POWER FOODS FOR THE MODERN LIFESTYLE™

Navitas Power Facts

All Navitas Naturals products are 'Power Foods': these carefully selected premium varieties may seem new but they are ancient foods having benefited the health of indigenous cultures for thousands of years.

Our support of native agriculture helps to expand global organic farming practices and economic development among indigenous people by increasing demand for the health-enhancing foods they produce.

Independent testing is of paramount importance: all our raw materials are tested on a regular, ongoing basis to assure they are of the highest quality and free of harmful compounds. Our Novato facility is a USDA certified organic manufacturing facility and adheres to the highest standards of the FDA.

Our products come from the wisdom of ancient cultures and their traditional use of plants for both culinary and medicinal purposes. We go to the source – traveling to directly connect and create partnerships with the farmers who grow the crops.

By reintroducing ancient, natural fare to the Western world, Navitas Naturals is expanding the functional food category, providing options with more bio-available essential nutrients, vitamins and minerals than most supplements and chemical extracts.

All Navitas Naturals products are organic, sustainably wild crafted, kosher and vegan. Our co-op farmers of Cacao and Maca products are members of the Fair Trade Federation.

We are committed to implementing and always following sustainable practices at our Novato production facility. The company uses 100% recycled paper, biodegradable cleaning products and recycles waste paper, plastic and other materials.

Navitas Naturals is family owned.
